FOREWORD

The class of '66 presents memories of
AN EVER-CHANGING SCHOOL
Which grew as we grew . . .
A school that offered us challenges in our chosen fields;
That lovingly prepared us for the future;
That turned dreams to possibilities
And possibilities to realities . . .
That embodied the free spirit of truth in all its teachings . . .
A school that provided us with time to reason
And to understand . . .
A school that gave us so much more than we can ever repay.

THE TATTLER

Superintendent And

LEMMON C. STOUDNOUR
Superintendent

Working in close association to improve the school system were Mr. Stoudnour and the school board. These people, dedicated to the ideals of better education, performed such important duties as teacher evaluation and budget planning. As an example of their perseverance, the junior high school opened in the fall of 1965 just as the board had promised it would. This building greatly lessened the crowding in the senior high school and added to the beauty of the community.

Mr. Stoudnour presided at many school meetings, including the pre-Thanksgiving football pep rally. Amid cheers, he promised that if the Hornets overcame the Whitehall Zephyrs, the student body could throw Coach Neff into the swimming pool. Mr. Stoudnour also gained popularity among the pupils by closing the schools for a few days because of snow-blocked roads during a blizzard.

Surprised during a dictation session, Mr. Stoudnour and his secretary, Mrs. Anita Ogle, are temporarily distracted by the photographer. Answering the steady stream of correspondence takes many hours.

School Board Acted As A Closely-Knit Team

EAST PENN UNION SCHOOL BOARD. Seated: Robert K. Young (Vice-President), Vernon Schantz (Treasurer), Harold D. Kells (President), Mrs. Ruth Knepper. Standing: George E. Neiss, Howard Eyer, Wilbur C. Huber (Secretary and Business Manager), Lloyd Jones, Howard Yarus (Solicitor).

The seven members of the school board proper informally discuss an issue in their beautiful new office in the junior high school. Meeting frequently, the board solves many administrative problems.

PAUL J. FRANTZ
Principal

Administrative Tasks Occupied Many Hours

In his third year as principal of Emmaus High School, Mr. Frantz performed many duties taken for granted by the student body. Authorizing early dismissals and afternoon absences, scheduling class meetings and assemblies, giving students references for colleges and jobs, and providing dates for use of the cafeteria and gym took many hours of his crowded days. In addition, Mr. Frantz was the school's guiding spirit, striving to reach new heights in excellence.

Mrs. Betty Romig, secretary, and Mr. Frantz work in close co-operation.

ALBERT F. UNGER
Assistant Principal

Discipline And Attendance— A Full-Time Job

A familiar figure in the halls during class changes and fire drills, Mr. Unger symbolized discipline and order at E. H. S. Because of the students' high respect for his office, he had to contend with relatively few incidents of unsatisfactory behavior during his second year as assistant principal. The combination of his firm character with Mr. Frantz's warm geniality made the school's administrative office a place of sure and rapidly-dispensed justice.

With a smile, Mr. Unger and Mrs. Adamchak glance up from the absentee list.

Supervisor Urges High Teaching Standards

As Supervisor of Secondary Education, Mr. Souders had the important job of observing and evaluating teachers in their classrooms and certifying that all courses met state requirements. Through unannounced visits to various teachers' classes, he formulated his opinions about the school's academic position. Because of his unobtrusive manner, students usually forgot his presence and acted normally, enabling him to obtain a true picture of the class's standards of work and of the teacher's capabilities.

Few pupils understood the responsibilities and the difficulties of his job; nevertheless, Mr. Souders was one of the most influential men at Emmaus High School, for it was through his efforts that the school maintained its high standards.

M. LUTHER SOUDERS
Secondary Supervisor

Mrs. Barbara Ritter and Mr. Souders scan one of Mr. Souders' reports on teacher performance. These reports insure that instructors at Emmaus High are of the finest quality available and ascertain that each is working to his fullest capacity.

MARCELLA GRAVER
Nurse

Exacting Jobs Added "Comforts Of Home"

Miss Graver administered hearing and vision tests, bandaged minor wounds, and treated victims of sudden illnesses. Miss Zurowska investigated the home lives of students doing poorly in school due to psychological or environmental factors. Mrs. Plarr, a skilled dietician, planned daily cafeteria menus.

MISS MARY ZUROWSKA
Home Visitor

MRS. KATHERINE PLARR
Cafeteria Manager

Highly Trained Duo Filled Toilsome Posts

As District Supervisor of Reading, Mr. Wagner examined reading books to be used in East Penn Union schools. He also helped choose the books to be added to school libraries and tested pre-first graders for reading readiness.

Mr. Keim, Supervisor of Special Services, approved the actions of the personnel below him. He served also as the school psychologist, testing both exceptional and "problem" students.

ACTIVITIES
Of a busy student body
Who found latent talents in their midst...
Who danced to music made by their classmates...
Who worked like demons to earn money for
Their various causes
And played as hard when work was done ...
Who rushed from meeting to meeting...
Who laughed easily and often ...
And who mourned the passing of a friend,
Young Elana Fegley.

The End Of A Day;—The End Of A Marking Period

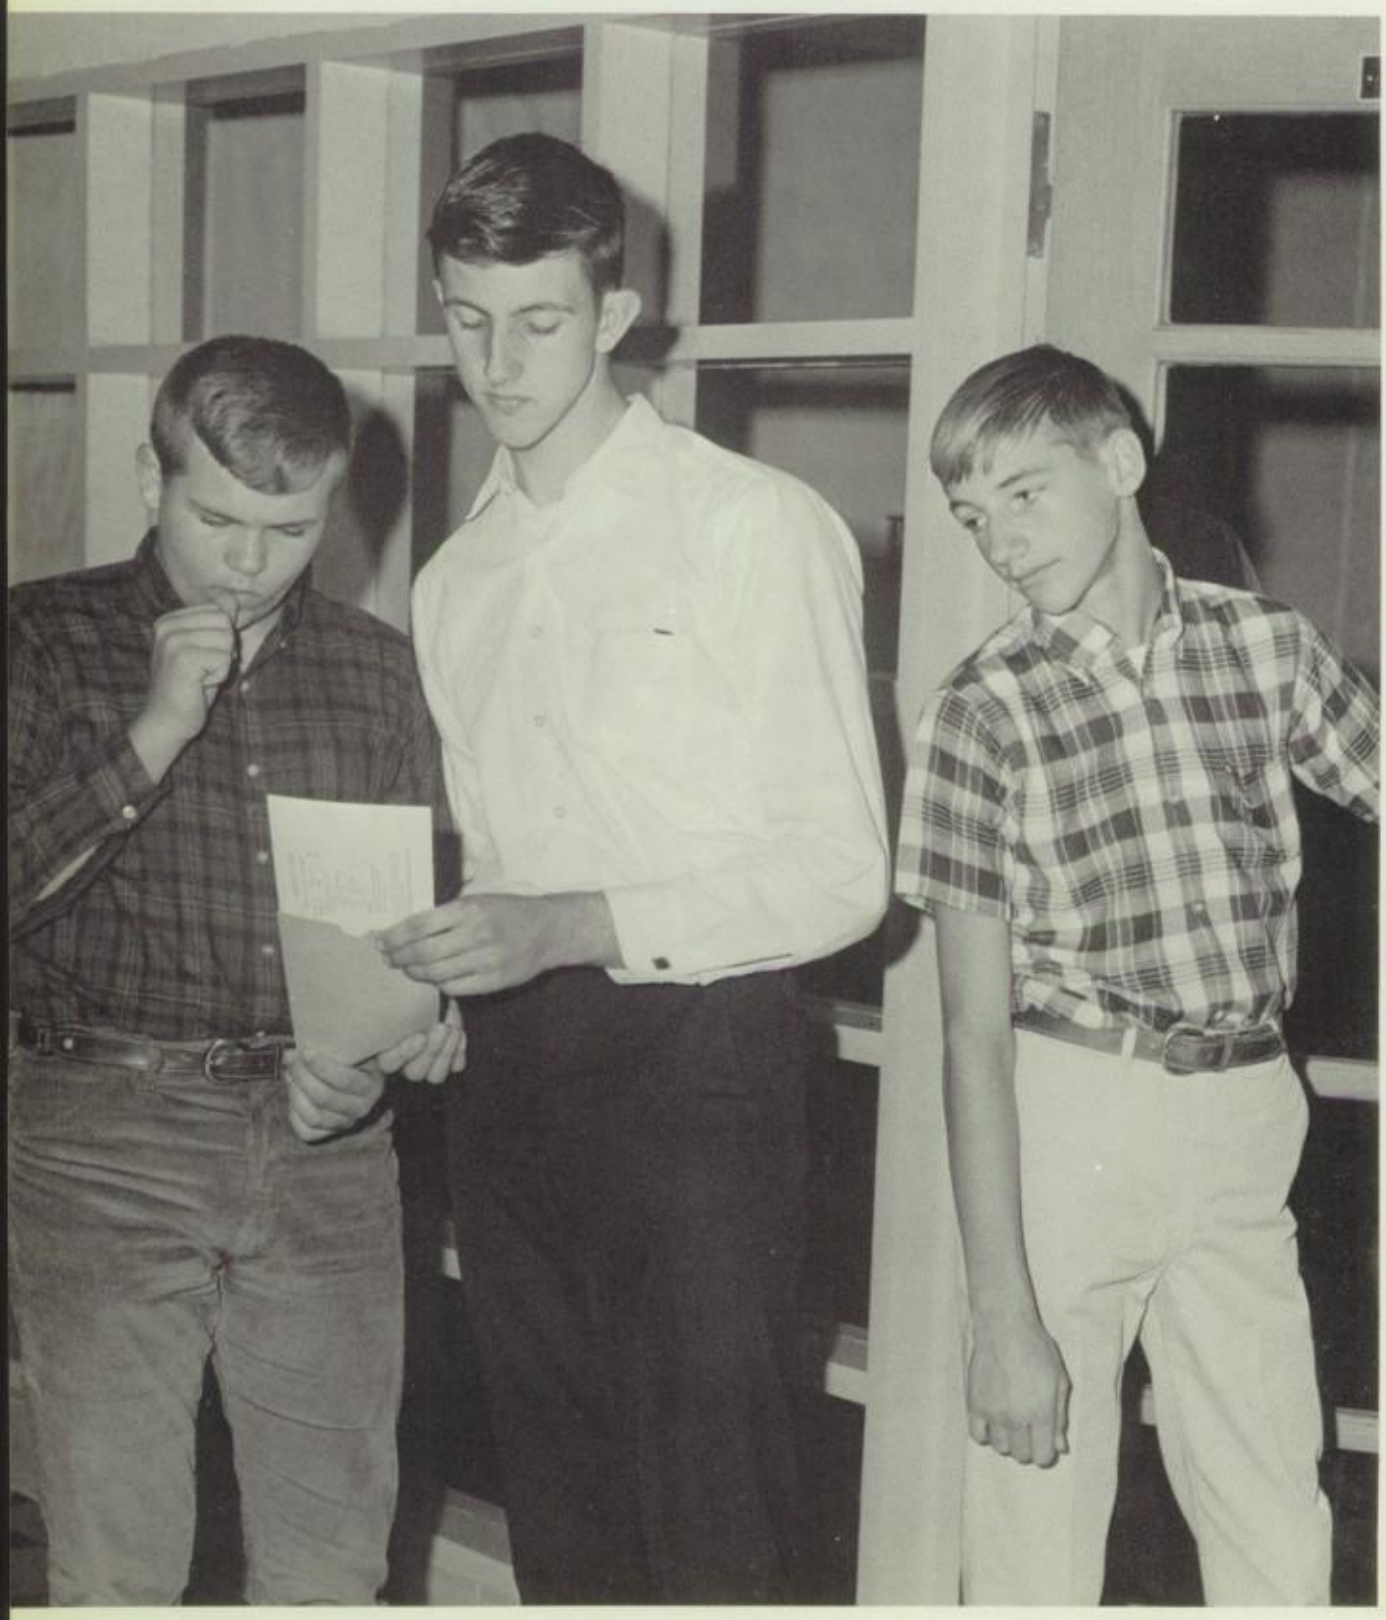
Freedom at last! Each day at 3:25 students carrying daily assignments poured through the doors of the bus entrance. When sidewalks failed to supply the most rapid avenues of exit, short cuts were taken by those eager to catch an early bus. Those with more time chose to dally in conversation.



Mixed emotions of consternation, mild interest, and indifference greeted report cards at the end of the marking periods. For some it meant temporary suspension of driving or dating privileges; for others report cards gave recognition for hard and diligent work. Although the subjects varied from year to year, the excuses for poor grades never did.

Any E.H.S. Student Will Recall These Scenes

Pensive students return to classes from an assembly. Odd how they go so much faster on the way to the auditorium!

On hall duty Mr. Burger examines the passes of two "suspicious-looking characters," John Ashcraft and Pete Smith.

"Want to buy a ticket to ——?" says Sally Stringer. Almost everything sold by the students, from mums to Tattler subscriptions, was peddled in the bus entrances in the early morning. This method of selling both facilitated and increased sales.

Lunch!— Routine But Unforgettable

Under the watchful eyes of Mr. Robert Hill and Mr. William Sheckler, noise in Cafeteria I was kept at minimum. Without such supervision who can tell what may have happened!

The lunch bell meant, "Climb those stairs at maximum speed and rush for a place at the head of a line."

Although brief, lunch time was amusing. The cameraman caught Phil Siebert and his friends engaging in their favorite pastime — trouble — and recorded permanently evidence of the indescribable "senior lunch".

Duane Erwin, halting his friends as they fumble for their books, apparently wants to make sure that no one mistakenly picks up his books in the rush.

Posters, Cheers, Spirited Music, And A Queen

Many preparations started early for the big game. Members of the Green Hornet Band (below) drilled and practiced until they perfected formation of The "Big E". Avid Hornet boosters (left) let their spirit run wild by creating flashy decorations for the stadium and the Turkey Day pep rally in the gymnasium.

Forming the "Big E" . . .

Herald Turkey Day Clash

The Emmaus Hornets football season reached its climax with the Turkey Day game. Miles of paper lined the gymnasium walls, balloons decorated the improvised goal posts, and excitement filled the air during the traditional Turkey Day pep rally. Thanks to the hard working cheerleaders and the many other spirited students the Turkey Day pep rally became one of those "special somethings" in the minds of the seniors.

Students cheer as Student Council President Dawn Reichard crowns Debbie Romig Football Queen for 1965 at the Turkey Day pep rally. Her escort, Glen Eichman, seems as pleased about the crowning as Debbie.

Moser Makes A Tough Shot . . .

Bob Moser and Glen Eichman combine their talents to demonstrate one of the top secret plays of the Emmaus basketball team. This play might prove useful if they ever faced a nine-foot tall opponent. Unfortunately, the team never quite mastered this unique plan, and they were forced to use more conventional tactics in their games.

School Spirit Finds Outlets In Many Ways

The E.H.S. girls' field hockey team takes a break during practice. This team, for many years one of the best at Emmaus High School, posted an excellent record.

Much to Phil Siebert's consternation, Dean Frankenfield, Ski Club president, balances on a snowdrift in the Emmaus High School patio. Unusually heavy snows during the winter months made members of the Ski Club happy because it gave them ample opportunity to improve and perfect their techniques before climaxing their year's activities with a trip to a New England ski resort.

Music for pep songs and cheers at all home basketball games was provided by the Emmaus High School Pep Band. Even though the band was small, their music inspired many students to cheer the home team on to victory.

Guests From Abroad— An Enlightening Event

This year Emmaus High School became host to three exchange students. The students were Mercedes Serra from Lima, Peru; Maurice Sledge from Tuscaloosa, Alabama; and Yvonne Bickley from Melbourne, Australia. Mercedes, who was known as Meche, resided with senior Karen Garnjost. On her return to Peru, Meche will enter a University in Lima to study teacher education. Maurice, a junior, is residing with Reverend and Mrs. Dean Stevenson of Emmaus. He arrived July 25 for a two year stay. After this Maurice plans to attend the University of Alabama. Yvonne Bickley who finished her year in November, returned to Australia where she is now attending the University of Melbourne.

Meche, our petite Spanish beauty, feels very much at home in Spanish class (above). Despite early difficulty with our language, Meche enjoyed all her classes.

Our three exchange students quickly became friends. They had many long talks, often comparing their schools at home with Emmaus High.

Varied Assemblies Entertain Student Body

At various times throughout the school year assembly programs were presented for the student body. Many of the programs were prepared by school clubs; others were lyceum programs sponsored by the Student Council. These lyceum programs, chosen and paid for by the Council, were interesting and entertaining as well as educational. Assemblies and lyceum programs played a vital role in the Emmaus High School program.

One assembly which drew appreciative applause and interest from the audience was the General Motors exhibition (top). Many strange scientific feats were performed, including the making of synthetic rubber. In another colorful assembly (upper right) the Ukrainian dancers, all students from area high schools, displayed their talents and explained the native costumes which they were wearing. The moving Christmas assembly (right) was presented by Mr. Sell directing the glee clubs and concert choir.

Ninth Grade History Classes Serve Community

Ninth grade students received a sampling of the problems and intricacies facing municipal officials when they took their places as borough leaders for a day. Student-Borough Government Day was revived this year and was carried out by students in the ninth grade Pennsylvania History classes. Candidates petitioned for each position and made their final bids for election at a rally in the auditorium.

The following day voting machines arrived from the Lehigh County headquarters and local committee women served as election board officials. When the returns were read, the victors set about naming students to serve with them in appointive positions.

The actual program opened with a breakfast and a tour of municipal buildings and offices where students met their official counterparts. Then students assumed their respective duties at a council meeting and offered their ideas and opinions for the continued improvment of the governing of Emmaus.

Debbie Romig Chosen To Reign As Queen

Of The Junior Prom

The theme, "Tales from Scheherazade", made the Prom a memorable event for the Class of 1966. Unforgettable memories of that enchanted evening, cherished by all who attended, lingered on. The evening was highlighted by the coronation of Prom Queen Debbie Romig and by the presentation of her court. Beautiful decorations, excellent organization, and hard work combined to make a success of the gala event. With an atmosphere of romance and enchantment prevailing over all, the Junior Prom proved to be an exciting experience—a truly tremendous climax to a prosperous and successful year.

Musicians Display

Musical excellence at Emmaus High School became evident through the accomplishments of six outstanding musicians. Emmaus also hosted the 1966 Eastern District Orchestra.

Through the efforts of Perry Beller, Barbara Coeyman, Tim Knecht, and Kent Kuder, Emmaus received recognition in the County, District, and Regional Bands as well as the District, Regional, and State Orchestras.

Musical distinction was not limited to instrumentalists, however. Paulette Schierer and Scott Deischer were honored with invitations to participate in the 1966 District Chorus.

Dedicated Workers Create Homelike Atmosphere

MRS. EDNA DeESCH, Matron

The highly efficient maintenance staff at Emmaus High School retained a comfortable and healthful environment for the students. Custodians worked around the clock through all seasons to keep the school grounds and classrooms and halls in order and made many repairs to keep the school plant in perfect condition. The congenial cooks in both cafeterias prepared tasty meals and took good-natured teasing from the seniors. Mrs. De Esch, competent and friendly, performed her duties as she literally walked miles daily through E.H.S. corridors. Patient bus drivers transported students to and from school, sports events, and field trips.

Student Council Records Year Of Progress

Each year one student from each homeroom is chosen to represent his fellow classmates on the Student Council. These people accomplished much this year in improving the surroundings of the building and sponsoring a variety of worthwhile projects. Under the capable direction of Mr. Franklin Roberts, the council's chief aim was to stimulate interest in the school by continuing plans for the outdoor bulletin board and also enlivening the school with attractive displays in the bus entrance showcase. Its most outstanding function of the year was the Donkey Basketball Game held on December 18. Students chosen from the student body rode the donkeys while a few inexperienced cheerleaders added to the comical chaos.

Business in the council-operated school store flourished due to its new location. Along with school jackets, sweaters, and innumerable other school supplies, they expanded their paperback book selection to fit the need of the students. As in the past, the council contributed to various charitable organizations and donated $250 toward the support of next year's foreign exchange student.

Student Council sponsored school store becomes a meeting place for students wishing to shop or socialize. Mr. Roberts assists Debbie Romig with a sale while others browse or hope to claim a misplaced possession.

Bob Boettger finds that mounting a donkey can be a difficult feat, especially when one is trying to play in a confusing basketball game at the same time.

Time And Talent Build A Better "Tattler"

Two factors provided possibilities for improving the Tattler. First, a measure was approved by the staff and adopted by the Senior Class to contract Hess Brothers department store for exclusive photography rights. In exchange the company effected special rates for senior pictures and contributed to the cost of publishing the Tattler. Secondly this year's edition excluded the seventh and eighth grades, who now occupy their new building. The yearbook now emphasized magnitude of activities, not magnitude of students. Another innovation replaced former advertising format with a compact patron list. The patron list, contributions, and bake sales defrayed the cost of publication.

Picture taking time — a busy time — frequently required impromptu conferences. Activities editor Glen Eichman confirms the schedule with Mrs. Bieber as Craig Moyer, Robin Wise, and Karen Schmoyer await orders for their next assignment.

E-Hive Staff Experiments With New Format

School Paper Fashioned To Students' Tastes

For those with journalistic ability the E-Hive provided an outlet for their talents. The E-Hive also offered to its staff members the experience of writing, editing, financing, and managing a newspaper. The production of the E-Hive was supervised by Editor-in-Chief Jacquie Turnauer with the guidance of advisors Miss Roberta Oldershaw and Miss Jane Beers.

Reporting on the many interests of the student body, the E-Hive covered all phases of school life. Frequent opinion polls displayed the interests and attitudes of Emmaus High School. The pages of the E-Hive carried notices of coming events and club activities. Personal glimpses of scholars, musicians and athletes recognized student leaders for their achievements. The Senior Edition, published in the spring, revealed the future plans of the 1966 graduates.

To supplement its income from advertisements and subscriptions, the E-Hive sponsored a "Spring Carnival" in April to herald the approach of warmer weather. Various clubs and classes operated traditional, as well as novel, games of skill in the gym. Both the Carnival and the dance which followed attracted a great crowd.

Top Students Rate N.H.S. Affiliation

The National Honor Society, composed of the top Junior and Senior students of Emmaus High School, continued to perform its job of tutoring students in need of assistance. The Junior members were admitted in mid-February in an impressive candle-light induction ceremony for the student body and parents. Gold keys, given to graduating members, honored them for their scholastic achievement and service.

Key Club Extends Public Service Program

"Serve With Integrity", the 1966 theme of Key Club International, best described the year's activities of the Emmaus High School Key Club. Members sacrificed their spare time to seed the lawn of a newly constructed church in Emmaus, to collect funds in a door-to-door canvass for the United Fund and Easter Seal Societies, and to usher at the Science Fair. A party held to welcome District Orchestra members provided an evening of enjoyment for both musicians and Key Clubbers.

Club members gather behind the piles of staple foods collected for distribution to needy families in the area, a project which took top honors at the 1965 Pennsylvania Key Club Convention.

Sportsmanship Emphasized By Varsity "E"

The Varsity "E" Club gave proper recognition to outstanding athletes. Endeavoring to promote better relationships among the various student bodies, the club stressed sportsmanship both on and off the playing field. The members, attired in their handsome green blazers, could often be found ushering at home athletic contests and serving as hosts and hostesses on Parent-Teacher Conference nights.

Various fund raising projects also kept the club busy. In addition to selling fruitcakes at Thanksgiving and Christmas, the Varsity "E" Club also sponsored dances after football and basketball games and conducted numerous hoagie sales. These projects enabled the club to purchase their blazers.

The annual Faculty Basketball Game proved to be a hilarious success as the "Green Batmen" of the high school faculty challenged the faculty team from the junior high school. The preliminary game, pitting the Varsity "E" Club against the Key Club, found the Varsity "E" Club traditionally victorious.

Guiding the club through its active year were Terry Kunkle, President; John Kelly, Vice-president; Sandra Shoemaker, Secretary; Debbie Romig, Treasurer; and Mr. Alfred Neff, Adviser.

Gay Dolphins Cavort In "Phanta-Sea-Land"

Under the capable and experienced direction of Mrs. Herman, the senior members of the Dolphin Club designed, staged, and wrote the script for "Phanta-Sea-Land," the annual aquacade. Sixty girls swam to numbers depicting stories from Mother Goose rhymes such as "The Ugly Duckling" and "The Pied Piper" which drew appreciative applause from the audience. Young and old riveted their attention to Pam Stead as she preformed the solo number as "Cinderella." Along with the complex scenery, the natatorium was beautified to a greater degree by glare-preventing curtains, a gift presented by the club.

Sports Clubs Draw Enthusiastic Response

From a nucleus of five girls, the Ski Club, advised by Miss Smith, grew to a membership of ninety. A first for Emmaus this year, the club was open to novice and expert skiers. During the ski season meetings were held at Apple Hill on Thursday nights. Members enjoyed many special ski trips to Elk Mountain, Big Boulder, and Greek Peak.

When the snow disappeared, Mr. Smith and his golfers headed for the greens and teed off in highly competitive club tournaments on the many local courses.

Practice And Talent Create Spirited Band

The Emmaus High School Band opened its marching season with a membership of 88 musicians, one drum major, 10 majorettes, and 7 color guards, the largest band ever to represent the high school. Of the 106 pieces, 70 were new to the band this year. Half time shows featured music from "Peter Gunn", the Washington and Lee Swing, and other familiar pep songs. Despite their inexperience, these people practiced diligently to make their routines live up to their outstanding tradition. Colorful appearances in local Halloween parades and the Band Banquet on April 28 rounded out a busy year.

With banners flying, high-stepping color guards lead the band onto the field to the strains of an E.H.S. fight song, then take their places with precision for the playing of the national anthem.

Green Hornet drummers are singled out at rehearsal, snap to attention, and practice their routines for Friday night's big game. Their spirited beat set the pace and reenforced student cheering.

Majorettes And Colorguard Dazzle Crowds

High-stepping majorettes, led by Starr Saylor, and the military color guards, commanded by Cindy Kammerer, added luster and variance to the football and basketball seasons. Without the necessary cooperation and compatability among themselves, these groups would never have produced such infallible performances. Spectators were unaware of the patience and skill needed to prepare gun drills and baton routines, but, nonetheless, they enjoyed these unique drills.

Flawlessness was achieved in the endless practices during summer band sessions, at daily band practices, and after school. The majorettes attended Carol Houck's Majorette Clinic for four days in July in order to present the best performances to the large attentive audiences. Skill was the key word to the success of the majorettes and the color guards throughout their performances.

Guitar-Toting Folk Singers Plan Shindig

"Something for everyone" seemed to be the motto of the E.H.S. music department, which provided a club for every type of musical taste. Student music enthusiasts found several outlets for their talents in three such clubs—Orchestra, The Esquires, and a unique new club, the Hootenanny Club. Under the batons of Mr. Edgar Stahley, Jr., and Kent Kuder, the orchestra presented a program of religious music in the Christmas assembly. The orchestra also programmed selections from the classics and Broadway hits for the annual Spring Concert. Four of the members received invitations to participate in the 1966 Eastern District Orchestra Festival held at Emmaus High School February 24, 25, and 26. The participants from E.H.S. were Barbara Coeyman and David Williams, violinists; Perry Beller, trumpet; and Timothy Knecht, snare drum.

The fifteen members of the Esquires, fourteen boys and one girl, also contributed their talents to the Spring Concert. As in previous years the popular Esquires played for a variety of public and class functions, including shows, dances, picnics, and class plays.

The Hootenanny Club made its first appearance at E.H.S. The club met weekly on Friday mornings in room 217 where the young folk singers displayed outstanding talent. The officers, William Conner (President), Dawn Reichard (Secretary), Christine Albers (Vice-president), and Kathy DeLong (Treasurer) inspired the members to work toward their special goal, a show featuring their favorite numbers.

"Tenors! Get your notes!" Mr. Sell animatedly tries to stress his point as he gesticulates to the tenor section of the Concert Choir and suggests that the boys' "Alleluias" be less spirited and more melodious.

The members of the Concert Choir, Mixed Ensemble, and Ninth Grade Glee Club provided delightful entertainment in assemblies for the student body and also in their annual Spring Concert for the public. The three clubs, organized for the music-minded students of E.H.S., were all under the capable direction of G. Wesley Sell. Concert Choir President Barbara Coeyman, along with her capable assistants, David Fabian (Vice-president), Hope Stoneback (Secretary-Treasurer), and Jean McThomas and Kent Kuder (Librarians) spurred the sixty-voice choir to the best year the club has enjoyed. The February Festival, held at Salisbury High School, high-lighted a successful season for the Mixed Ensemble. The Ninth Grade Glee Club, future Concert Choir members, added that "extra something" to the talents of their contemporaries and helped to accomplish a very successful year for the Emmaus High School music department.

Well Trained Crews Offer Technical Aid

For every successful stage production, credit must go to the Stage Crew. Their combination of technical sound and lighting skills with hours of voluntary service played a vital role in the staging of a show. Willing to aid any organization, the Stage Crew displayed their talents in assemblies, concerts, class plays, and many public programs.

Service at a moment's notice was the byword for the Projectionist Club. When placing a request for a projector or a tape recorder, the faculty could rely fully on the club. Members also offered aid in the equipment's operation and kept the equipment in excellent condition.

Mature Planning Leads To Worthy Group Service

Fong Se Mong was adopted by Y-Teens as their Hong Kong foster child. In addition to a Thanksgiving Basket, the club donated toys to children at State Hospital. In January members stayed overnight at the YWCA bungalow, and seven delegates attended Central-Eastern Mid-Winter Conference at Hazelton.

Composed of ninth graders, the Sewing Club learned sewing, knitting, and crotcheting skills. Members met ninety minutes weekly to work on their individual projects.

Theme of the first Emmaus Future Homemakers of America was "The Keystone of Tomorrow." Activities varied from a Christmas tea for mothers and refreshments for District Orchestra members to sewing "gonks".

Adding a festive air to their meeting place in the home living suite are FHA'ers Wendy Wise, Barbara Kimmel, Jayne Malburg, and Joanne Eby. Besides wreaths, the club had a small Christmas tree and a creche to decorate their room.

With the experienced assistance of Mrs. Yeager, the Future Teachers of America acquired information on the responsibilities, advantages, and disadvantages of the teaching profession. Fifty-seven members attempted to aid the faculty and students in various ways. F.T.A. sponsored two projects to assist others: serving as tutors to high school pupils and assisting teachers by performing clerical duties. Members also rendered service by acting as volunteer guides for the Parent-Teacher Conference nights.

Semi-weekly meetings, held on Tuesday evenings, featured varied programs. Discussions of college and college life showed students the demands of teacher training institutions. Then came the big day when the students themselves faced actual classroom situations by observing and teaching in nearby elementary schools. F.T.A. appropriately granted a scholarship to a senior club member planning to enter a teacher training school. Bake sales and candy sales provided most of the necessary funds.

Voluntary Aides Probe Career Advantages

Daily distribution of overdue notices kept library assistants busy tracking down students whose fines remained unpaid. Linda Eisenhard and Karen Hart stop by to request Miss Howard to deliver slips to several negligent ones in her class at the time.

Seeking methods to improve library facilities, the members of the Library Club performed extra services in addition to their scheduled duties. Shelved books were constantly checked and straightened, current and backdated magazines were kept easily accessible, the card catalogue was continually brought up to date, and attractive bulletin boards and showcase displays were periodically changed.

In October the club and their adviser, Miss Clauser, attended the Teenage Library Association Convention at Hamburg, Pennsylvania. Looking ahead, the group held fund-raising projects to finance the trip to next year's convention to be held at Conrad Weiser, Pennsylvania. They also sponsored a Christmas party for youngsters attending the Day Care Training School. The children received from the club members books and small gifts.

Student Interests Reveal Serious Purpose

Drama Club members studied dramatic techniques ranging from make-up to public speaking, and devoted much of their time to the development of theatrical talents.

A first for Emmaus this year was the Silver Jewelry Club. Members raised money for equipment and upon completion of their crafts, sold them to willing jewelry lovers about school.

Rapidly growing in membership, the Future Business Leaders of America, under the direction of Mr. Hassler, visited local industries and gained valuable insight into various job opportunities available after high school.

Symbolism, setting, plot, and author's biography were familiar terms at bi-weekly Literary Guild meetings as members sought to acquaint themselves with noted literary works and authors. Discussions touched extremities ranging from controversial James Baldwin to romanticist Robert Browning in addition to noted literary works of John Steinbeck, Alduos Huxley, and Mary Steward.

The Campus Life Club was a part of an international organization of students whose purpose was to make the Bible relevant to teenagers and everyday life. At weekly meetings the Bible was discussed and studied by guest speakers or by students. Throughout the year special rallies for the Lehigh Valley and other areas were held at Bethlehem, Pennsylvania and Ocean City, New Jersey.

November 17 the scramble debate opened at Hellertown High. The topic was the Metric System. So opened the Lehigh Valley Interscholastic Debating Association Season. There were three rounds, the final two being a semi-formal debate and the final tournament at Whitehall High.

Linguists Study Ways Of Life In Other Lands

Language-minded students at E.H.S. formed three new clubs this year. The French Club gathered to share the rich, colorful heritage of the French nation, while other students explored the language of America's Cold War rival in the Russian Club. Meetings featured fellowship and understanding of our European neighbors. Hoping to gain an even better knowledge of other cultures, members of the Spanish Club worked seriously in hopes of being able to make a visit of several weeks' duration to either Spain or Mexico. Coupled with the many exchange students studying at E.H.S., such activities made modern foreign languages come alive.

Individual laboratory study develops in students the capacity for self-criticism and self-evaluation. As a result, they rapidly become more fluent in the modern language of their choice.

Expert Team Provided Vocational Guidance

The guidance offices always opened their doors to students with problems. In addition to counseling pupils about vocations, the guidance staff also administered a great variety of tests concerning everything from scholastic ability to job preferences. Occupation classes for the freshmen increased contact between the academic world and the wider world beyond high school. Frequent individual conferences helped many pupils to redirect their energies toward new and exciting goals.

Preparing upperclassmen for their approach to adulthood were Miss Strauss and Mr. Tuttle. Mr. Richards helped freshmen make the transition from the lower grades to high school as easily as possible. Working as a team, they aided the progression to maturity.

GUIDANCE DEPARTMENT: Leon Tuttle (Director), Miss Mildred Strass, Evan E. Richards.

Mrs. Barto's cheery smile greets the sometimes worried, sometimes elated, but perpetually rushed students who come to talk with Miss Strauss and Mr. Tuttle.

Chatting informally in her office, Miss Strauss brings Linda Cronk's records up to date by entering Linda's curriculum and activities for the year.

Language Arts Programs Develop Expression

To enable students to communicate with people of other countries, the hard-working foreign language department promoted an array of activities. Classes spent hours during and after school studying the language and culture of Rome, learning German and French by the audio-lingual method, earning money for a summer trip to Spain, discussing Russian culture, and conversing with exchange student Meche Serra.

Students of English attempted constantly to increase their understanding in reading, to improve their vocabularies, and to develop pleasing styles in composition. After polishing basic skills of reading comprehension and grammar in the freshman and sophomore years, they progressed to intensive studies of literature, public speaking, and creative writing.

Mr. Schaadt pores over the controls of the operator's console in the language laboratory, deciding which switches work.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT: Miss Annelie, L. Dimmlich, Mrs. Gail Matz, Mrs. Hilda Moyer, Mr. Woodrow K. Schaadt, Mrs. Katherine Beckner, Mrs. Maxine Siegelbaum.

"Following this line of reasoning, it becomes obvious that—um—er—." David Motko finds it necessary to refer to his notes during a speech to his English class. Miss Gery, a student teacher, supervises the class under Mrs. Bieber's scrutiny.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT: Miss Ruth E. Howard, Mrs. Doris J. Gerhard, Glenn F. Johns, Miss Roberta Oldershaw, Mrs. Jean H. Bieber, Mrs. Mary Shoemaker.

Social Studies Stressed Global Viewpoint

Following an orderly progression, the study of history gave pupils an opportunity to increase their understanding of world affairs. Through Pennsylvania History, freshmen broadened their horizons and learned about diplomacy and international politics in a limited sense. Sophomores studied these and other topics as they pertain to the general development and welfare of the world. In American History, the juniors applied these concepts to their own country, learning about their nation's progress in its relation to the world. Seniors examined America's history on an internal basis in Problems of Democracy. For knowledge of world affairs, juniors and seniors could also elect to take International Relations.

An excellent student, Maurice Sledge is an active participant in the many discussions held in his American History class. Coming from the deep South as an exchange student, he provides a different viewpoint and new insights.

SOCIAL STUDIES DEPARTMENT: Alfred D. Neff, Samuel L. Himmelberger, Robert W. Landis, Kenneth D. Wesser, David J. MacLaughlin, George M. Opilla, Bruce A. Polster, Robert G. Hill.

Mr. Wesser and three of his Pennsylvania History students examine a bulletin board done by Mr. Polster's 9-1 history class.

Science Courses Posed Exciting Challenges

Fascinated, Chemistry II students alternate between two experiments being done simultaneously by Mr. Knecht, the group's instructor, and a fellow student. The spacious, well-stocked lab lends itself easily to this interesting method of teaching.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT: William A. Miller, Haven C. Knecht, Ronald H. Rieder, Miss Ruth Smith, Richard J. Roberts, Albert N. Miller, Jerome E. Baer.

For Eager Learners

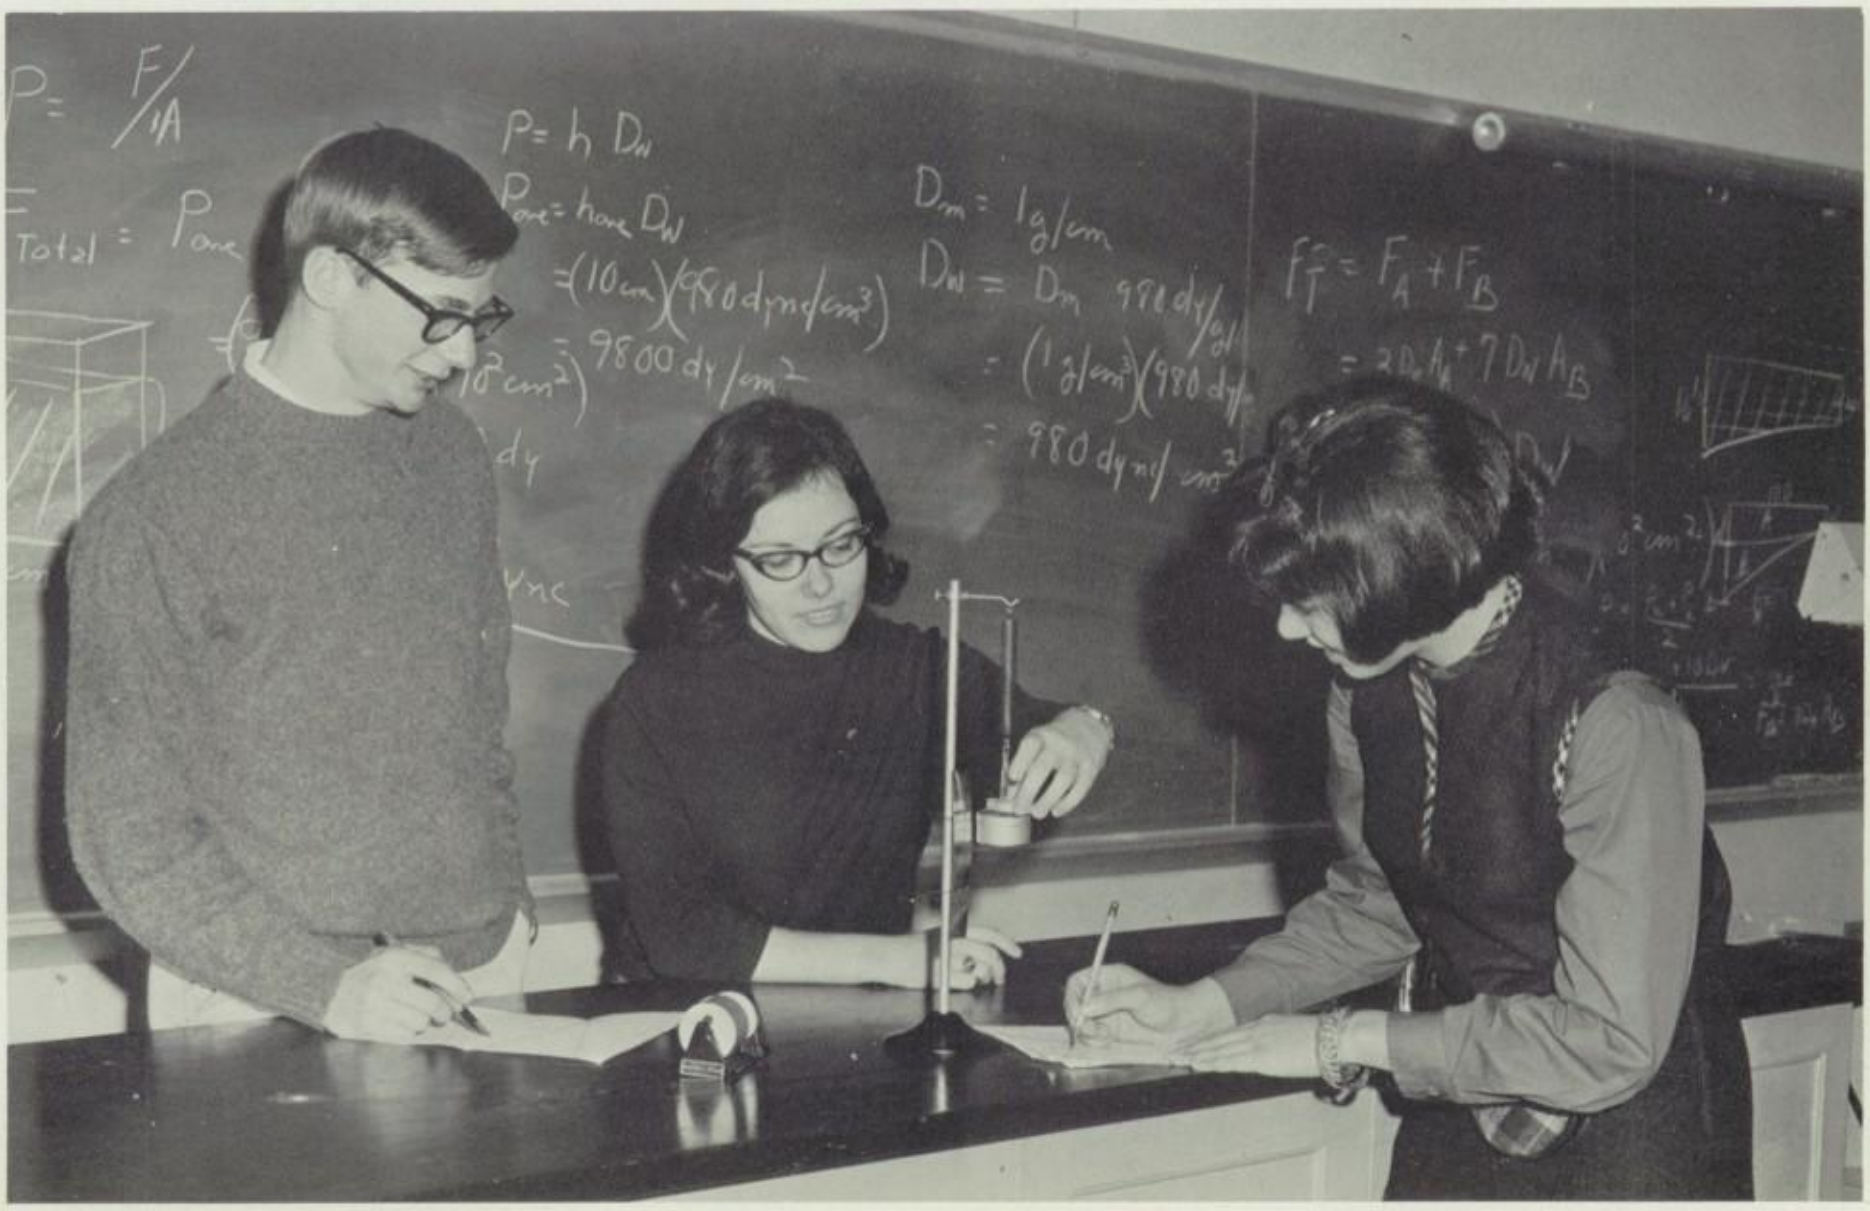
This year, to meet the demands of America's ever-growing technology, the science department instituted two detailed new courses: Chemistry II and Biology II. These, along with the standard Biology I, Chemistry I, physics, and physical science courses, enabled Emmaus High School to produce graduates not only well versed in all the basic fields of science but also competent in more specialized areas.

Another innovation, the planetarium, in the junior high school, enriched those courses encompassing astronomy. The high school's well-equipped laboratories allowed many students to prove scientific laws with data they themselves obtained through closely supervised experimentation. Supplementary assembly programs, such as the one provided by General Motors, helped to spark interest in the possibilities furnished by the school's own facilities. An excellent teaching staff put these advantages to good use, making the school one in which science courses fulfill the students' needs and desires.

In the solarium, Mike Fegley, Suzanne Haklitch, and Dennis Stortz examine the growth of the plants with which they are experimenting. The room offers a controlled warm environment.



In their physics class, Bill Conner, Judy Hoffman, and Carol Litrides collect data to measure the relationship of the weight on a spring to the distortion (stretching) produced.

Library Housed Stores Of Fact And Fantasy

The library provided a quiet sanctuary for study and reference work. Under Miss Clauser's supervision, the E. H. S. library added many new titles. Working with Miss Clauser were the members of the Library Aides, who helped maintain silence and order. In spite of their many duties, workers in the library always willingly helped students find needed materials. Colorful displays enhanced the library's appeal and informed pupils of additions to the stacks.

Sandra A. Clauser, Librarian

Miss Clauser watches as Library Aide Susan Rhine stamps the books for two underclassmen. The Aides care for many of the details in the library, freeing Miss Clauser for other jobs.

MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT. Albert L. Henning, Mrs. Edythe Rubens, Albert H. Burger, Curtis R. Sthare, Mrs. Kathleen Csordas, Richard Black.

Mathematics Offered Fresh Opportunities

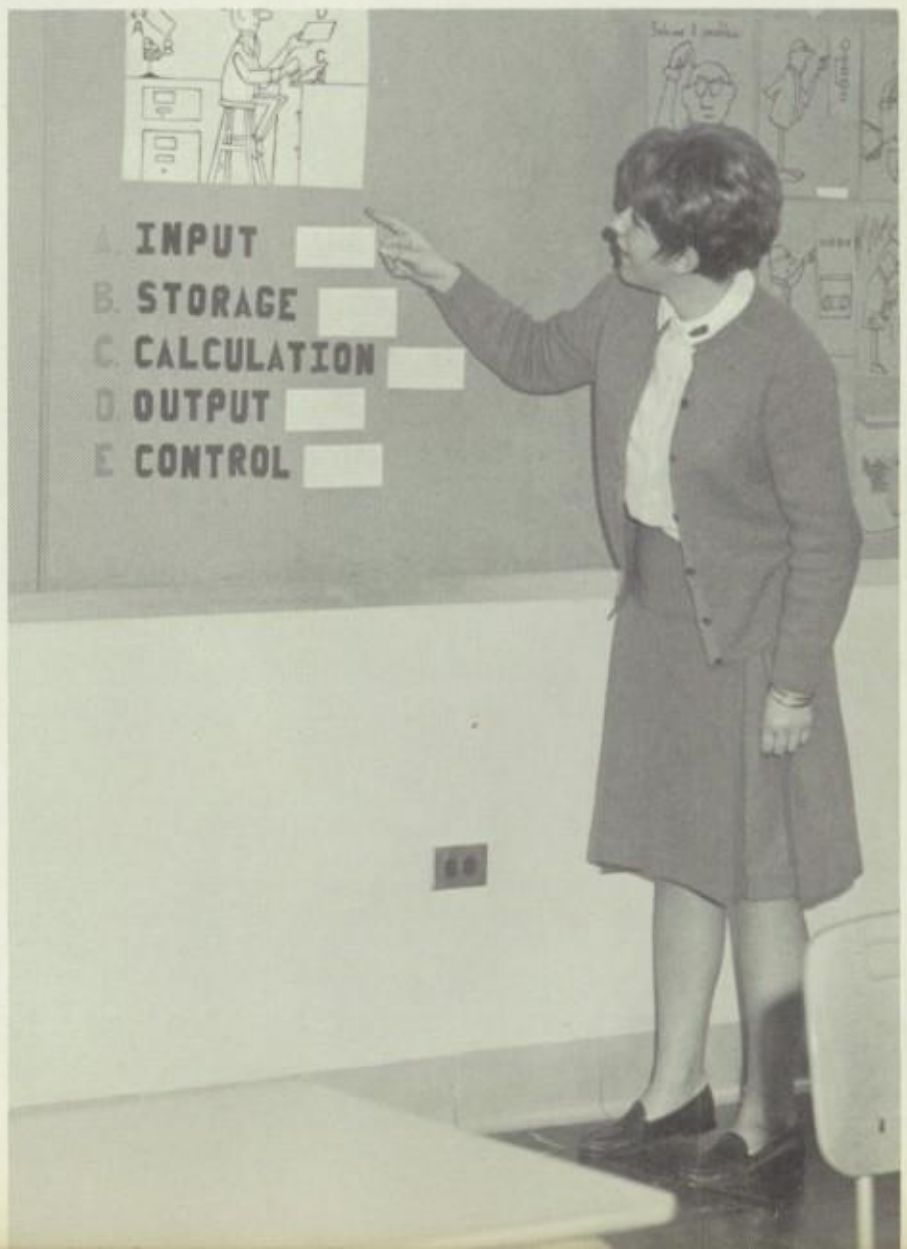
Technically-minded students found Emmaus High School's selection of mathematics courses richly fulfilling. Available subjects included basic general math courses and abstruse analytic geometry and calculus. The curriculum took into account the wide span of student interests, letting each pupil progress at his own rate into the more difficult courses and offering business, college preparatory, and general mathematics to meet each individual's needs.



Following the steps in mechanized problem solving, Georgia Gasper learns how a simple computer operates. Bulletin board displays like this one add greatly to the formal instruction.

Specialized Units Filled Special Needs

Sophomores studied the mechanics of the car, driving theory, traffic regulations, and map reading in driver education. Mr. Leibensperger and Mr. Roberts utilized every possible means to make the classes stimulating, including movies and talks by mechanics and state policemen.

Qualified juniors drove on the school's driving course and on the public streets under the supervision of Mr. Roberts and Mr. Leibensperger. This program allowed many students to obtain their senior licenses at the age of seventeen and benefited the community by teaching young drivers how to avoid accidents.

Special education attempted to help unacademically oriented students to help themselves. Under the expert direction of Mr. Roth, students in need of special guidance and understanding searched for their places in society. Through training in such areas as typing, painting, and other manual arts, the pupils learned more about their capabilities and interests in vocational fields.

Besides teaching job skills, special education gave its pupils an incentive to remain in school, a warm, friendly atmosphere in which to work, and a curriculum suited to their own particular needs.

DRIVER EDUCATION DEPARTMENT. Franklin G. Roberts, Donald Leibensperger.

SPECIAL EDUCATION. James V. Roth

Business Encouraged Application Of Skill

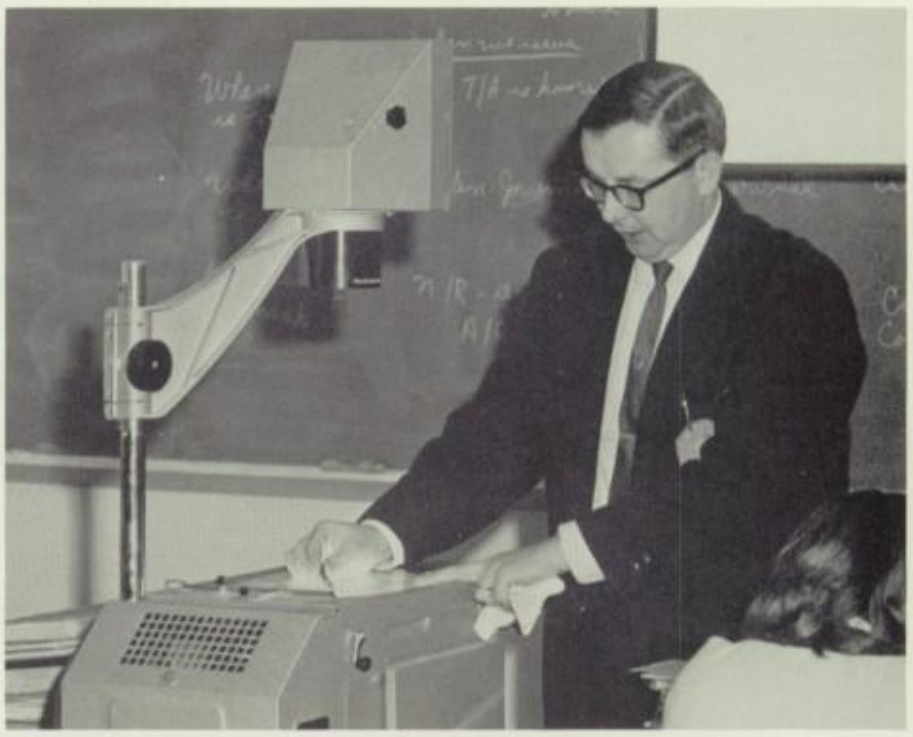
The business education staff strove not only to give special training to the students planning to enter the business world immediately after graduation but also to make well-rounded individuals of the pupils under their direction. Business students, therefore, received training in office skills and business law, economics, English, bookkeeping, and mathematics. In addition, seniors put their learning to the test in a program of real office practice.



Mr. Smith prepares the overhead projector to show business students how their homework forms should look.

In the artroom students work frantically to finish their projects before the deadline. Frequent assignments coupled with artistic stimulation and easy availability of materials of many sorts promote a steady progression from amateur to expert.

Art Added Knowledge Of Aesthetic Styles

Artistic creativity flourished in the Emmaus High School art classes. Using such different materials as old magazine clippings, tile, poster paints, clay, oils, and copper sheeting, students produced beautiful and striking works. Regular displays of these articles in the school showcases brightened the entire area and often elicited delighted comments from passing students. In addition to this exhibiting, pupils entered poster competitions, school art contests, and Halloween window decoration contests. The newly-formed Silver Jewelry Club encouraged artistically gifted students to express themselves in metalworking.

ART DEPARTMENT. Miss Mary E. Miller

Music Flavored Life With Melodic Beauty

The varied music courses offered at E. H. S. brought pleasure to the participants and the public. The concert choir presented the students with many enjoyable and memorable assembly programs and musicales; the band provided the stirring music for our sporting events, parades, concerts, and assembly programs. In late February, the E. H. S. orchestra played host to the district orchestra. A truly expert group, they performed excellently. Thanks to their fine musical training, four Emmaus students were chosen as members of this company. The school orchestra also provided very fine concerts for the public.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT: G. Wesley Sell, Jack M. Long.

"Crescendo—that's it . . . ROUND tones, now!" Mr. Sell encourages the concert choir during one of their rehearsals. Meeting daily, the choir tries to perform always at their peak.

Physical Training Promoted Vital Fitness

Physical education offered the opportunity to develop the body to its fullest potential, to form lasting friendships, and to gain a quality called "Sportsmanship." Under the direction of well-trained teachers, boys and girls learned to win or to lose with equal grace, to strive to win in the face of seemingly impossible odds, and to accept challenges boldly and confidently. For these reasons, physical education has become an integral part of our school.

(Left) Kay Harvey performs a side vault on the horse with grace and ease, even when concentrating on smiling for the photographer. (Below) As his classmates watch with interest, Tom Schmoyer performs a swan dive over the horse onto the hands of Bob Miller. (For the record, he landed safely.)

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT: William Imschweiler, Richard J. Shaak, Mrs. Virginia Herman, Miss Gwendlyn J. Armitage.

Home Living Made Girls Into Women

The home living department offered practical training for life as a homemaker. In elective and required courses, girls broadened their knowledge in such fields as cooking, sewing, child care, and etiquette. As Mrs. Trump and Mrs. Reeder instructed their students, the girls grew in skills and maturity. The fashion show at the end of the year gave the girls a chance to exhibit both their handiwork and their poise. Many of the girls became so engrossed in their studies that they joined Mrs. Reeder's Future Homemakers of America or Mrs. Trump's Sewing Club.

HOME LIVING DEPARTMENT: Mrs. Jane M. Trump, Mrs. Jessie H. Reeder. INDUSTRIAL ARTS DEPARTMENT: John B. Child, Glenn E. Heckman, Merle Conner, William T. Sheckler.

Vocational Courses Train Craftsmen

The industrial arts department taught boys how to use tools and materials creatively. Constant polishing of wood shop skills resulted in many articles professional enough to be exhibited in the school's showcase. Boys in the print shop produced many of the school's advertising posters and admission tickets for school functions. Students in metalworking labored over individual projects ranging from the mundane to the unconventional as their skills increased. Thus, boys taking industrial arts gained an insight into the working of machines and improved their dexterity.

Right: Mr. Heckman instructs Kenneth Higgins in the use of the printing press. Later, Kenneth and his classmates will become adroit enough to print posters and programs. Below: In metal shop, Wayne Burrows watches as Howard Bachman uses the welding iron.

Fun Blended

Mr. Neff and one of his Problems of Democracy classes discuss taxes. In this course students solved the mystery of income tax returns.

In her sparkling office, Miss Graver treats students' minor ailments —in the cases of these two girls, a slight burn and a headache.

With Work Made Scholastic Life Enjoyable

Many informal activities added a spark of interest to scholastic areas at E. H. S. Assemblies such as the "College Bowl" competition and the lyceum on liquid air increased the students' knowledge and incited the desire for more advanced studies. Field trips to Lehigh University for members of the Honor Society, to the Science Fair for its contestants, to the State Farm Show for the F. H. A., and to the courthouse and the State Hospital for the senior class added a degree of active participation to fields mainly theoretical. The model U. N. assembly and an afternoon of debates also added variety to school life.

Mr. Farrar explains the workings of the planetarium projector to a group of interested science students. When lighted, the globe to which he is pointing gives the viewer the feeling of being inside the earth looking out.

Rulers of all the students ...
Biggest frogs in a tiny pond ...
The highest and mightiest of all ...
In all their "dignity"
The SENIORS
Grudgingly deigned to associate
With the underclassmen ...
Chuckled over jokes only the initiated
Could understand ...
Lost themselves in formidable tasks ...
And grieved about leaving E.H.S.

STUDENTS:
Some terrified,
Some elated, but
Most with mixed feelings about school . . .
All of them eager to learn,
To grow in knowledge and experience, and
To prove themselves . . .
These were the UNDERCLASSMEN,
The backbone of the school.
They worked and played in harmony
And advanced another year in '66.

Building
Team spirit and
Individual strength,
SPORTS added an accent of
Physical labor to an academic curriculum;
Promoted school spirit and
Left indelible memories of Crisp fall nights and
Sunny spring days
That made the issue of victory or defeat
Seem unimportant.

Busy Director Coordinates Athletics Program

"It's drizzling. Shall I postpone the baseball game? How many buses do I need for today's game?" These are just a few of the questions that run through the mind of Mr. Hill, our Faculty Manager. He has numerous problems to solve. Along with arranging a workable sports schedule, he must supervise transportation for the teams traveling to away contests. He handles sales of season tickets for football and basketball games. Mr. Hill assumes responsibility for all game receipts and approves requests for purchase of new equipment. He is the man who coordinates twelve varsity sports.

Cheerleaders Boost Spirit On The Field

"Touchdown, Touchdown, Touchdown, boys! You make the touchdowns. We'll make the noise!" Explosive cheerleaders do a bang-up job as they muster spirited support for the football team. Thanksgiving's arrival meant a tensely awaited Whitehall game. These vivacious girls drummed up a lot of extra spirit in a little bit of time.

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS: J. Derr, D. Romig, T. Fegley, K. Davey, P. Heimbach, L. Brimlow, S. Nestor, L. McKeever.

And Behind The Scenes

Always ready to spark the Hornet teams on to victory, the cheerleaders aroused Hornet fans to get behind their teams and fight.

Under the direction of Miss Armitage, the girls practiced new techniques, improved motions, and devised new cheers. During the summer senior members of the squad attended a cheerleading camp and shared ideas with cheerleaders of other schools.

Junior Varsity cheerleaders also showed fight and determination with enthusiastic cheers. This year's cheerleaders earned the praise of the student body for their fine job in boosting school morale and student interest in sports activities.

Seven cheerleaders line up to boost school spirit and lead a rousing cheer for the Hornet's touchdown march in the Thanksgiving Day Game. The enthusiasm they showed was the guiding force behind the victories.

Hornets Drop Seven Games In Tough Schedule

The gridiron squad registered one of the most disappointing seasons in its history, winning only three of ten games, but the Green and Gold displayed the fine brand of good sportsmanship and fair play traditional to Emmaus.

The Hornets lost to the hard-fighting Trojans of Parkland for the first time in seven years and fell to Quakertown in two opening independent games. League games proved equally disappointing until Emmaus eked out a narrow victory over Slatington. Against Palmerton, the team displayed the cohesion which it previously lacked. Keeping the win column growing was the Hornets' objective when they trounced the favored Wilson Warriors 28-14.

Victory added life to the team and they played before a packed stadium on Turkey Day. Unhappily they lost. Scott Shafer recovered a loose ball and crossed the goal for the Hornets' only score.

Overflowing with spirit and desire, the Junior Varsity team practiced and played better than their best to present Coach Shaak with another successful season. Posting a record of eight wins and one tie, the little Green Hornets again pocketed the mythical league title.

These hard-nosed go-getters functioned as a unit while they harvested touchdown after touchdown. The unusual was the usual for this team and its coaches. The most demoralizing play was often unleashed on the first down. Crowding the ball, the opposing team awaited the expected power play, only to be caught off-guard with a well executed roll-out which developed into a "long bomb." The interjection of these surprises into the regular play sequence by Coach Shaak and Coach MacLaughlin inspired in the men the will to win and justifiable confidence.

Friday Nights At The Stadium Held Many Thrills

7 minutes, 23 seconds remaining! Can the Hornets hold on? A sharp defense prevented a score and Palmerton lost.

Mr. Neff presents Bob Miller the trophy for being the outstanding back of the year. Bob gained more yardage than any other back on the team and he was leading scorer.

Girls Show Grit And Stamina In League Play

Under the careful and expert direction of Coach Virginia Herman, our girls' Field Hockey team had a winning season. Failing to overcome the stiff competition offered by Upper Perkiomen and Parkland, the team faced an uphill climb. They won the next seven straight until they were tied by Phillipsburg 3 - 3. Ending the season with 7 wins, 2 losses, and 1 tie, the team wound up the league season with 13 points to win the Penn-Jersey Girls Field Hockey championship.

A glance at the J.V. team reveals high hope for the coming seasons. After two losses the youngsters finished with seven consecutive wins.

Coach Shaak And Team Shared Anxious Moments

With no letterwinners returning, Emmaus cagers faced the great task of surpassing last year's mark of eight wins and six defeats in Lehigh Valley League competition. Coach Shaak began the season with only five seniors having any varsity experience. During the preseason games Coach Shaak elevated sophomore Derek Garnjost and freshman Roy Stauffer to varsity positions.

The Hornets struggled through the preseason schedule of games without a win. With the addition of Stauffer and Garnjost the Hornets charged into league competition. Co-captains Moser and Nichter led the Hornets to two victories in the first half of the season, but in the second half, plagued by poor rebounding and inconsistent shooting, the cagers failed to win a game.

Coach MacLaughlin's Junior Varsity team enjoyed a much more successful season. Eight talented sophomores and seven freshmen ended their season with ten wins and twelve losses. Leading scorers Tom Klusaritz and Bill Lauber negated the lack of team height and employed a powerful offense with Klusaritz hitting from the corner and Lauber leading the attack in the frontcourt.

Fair Season Enjoyed By Fiery Hornette Team

Enthusiasm, sportsmanship, and determination brought sixty candidates for girls' basketball to practice November 9. Coach Armitage chose a squad of eighteen—only one senior and a majority of novices. Despite the inexperience, the team finished the first half in second place with a record of five wins and two losses. Trudy Fishburn and Joan Oleksa led the team in scoring with a per game average of 19 and 19.6 points respectively.

During the second half the girls fought hard as they battled for the league title. They were in a fine position until the last three games.

Coached by Mr. Imschweiler and his assistant, Mr. Frank Roberts, and led by only six seniors, our swimmers finished with a league record of five wins — four losses and an overall record of 5-5. There was not a swimming or diving record to go unbeaten. New records were set and reset. Joel Schuster, a junior, placed fourth in diving at the Eastern Regional Swimming and Diving Championships at Elizabethtown College and went on to place tenth in the state match.

Other contestants in the regional meet were Bill Reinhart, Bill Smith, Bill Mills, Dave Fabian, John Fegely, and Carter Kline, all of whom placed fourth or better in the District XI meet at Lehigh University.

Wrestlers Drive Hard For Winning Season

Steve Huddleston has a good hold on Gregg Jones. Or is it the other way around? Don Wieder tries to decide which one has the advantage. "Jones appears to be in the better position," said referee Weider when questioned.

Three Boys Advance To Regional Competition

Green Hornet matmen were very optimistic when the season first began. However, they could manage to garner only two wins and one tie. They trounced Lehighton 37 - 12 and beat Slatington 31 - 13. Hope ran high in the Catasauqua meet, but the team was forced to settle for a 22 - 22 tie. Leading the Hornets in personal victories was Junior Steve Huddleston.

In District XI competition three men survived the quarter-finals — Steve Huddleston, Donald Wieder, and Ernie MacIlwraith. Unfortunately these grapplers were eliminated in the semi-finals.

The Junior Varsity team was very impressive and finished the season with a better showing than their varsity counterparts. With many of the varsity boys returning next year to join the promising J V's, the '67 season looks bright for the Emmaus Wrestlers.

Saeger slides in a split second after Killo tags the plate.

Coach Polster faced the difficult task of rebuilding the baseball squad. The Hornet team entered the season with high hopes, but quickly developed a problem — hitting. On the other hand, pitching was its strong point. Underclassmen Bill Lauber, Tony Puzauskas, Charles Heatley, and Tom Klusaritz gave a consistently fine pitching performance. The team's fielding was good. With Tom Saeger at third, John Rogers at first, Roy Stauffer at shortstop, and Bert Killo catching, few teams scored many runs against the Hornets. Despite the good pitching and fielding, the Hornets had a hard time winning the close games.

The girls softball team, coached by Miss Armitage, exuded enthusiasm even during the cold rainy weather which, as usual, seemed to arrive in the nick of time for spring sports. Co-captains Virginia Gehman and Sandy Shoemaker just seemed to bubble with spirit and led the team to a quick start as they defeated Quakertown 13-11. This year Coach Johns molded one of the best track teams in recent years. With only four lettermen returning, the Green Hornets did better than anyone expected. Chuck Nichter broke the record in the 880 several times, finally running it in 2:04.4. Glen Eichman smashed the record for the shotput twice before his eventual record throw of 51' 3½". # Netmen Struggle To Improve Season Record

With strong determination our tennis team, coached by Mr. Sheckler, achieved the most successful season in its history. Led by their captain Bob Moser, Harries, Okie, and Conner in singles and Moser-Conner and Harries-Miller in doubles faced hard opposition. Their worst defeat came from the reigning Bethlehem team, which had sustained an undefeated record for two years. The Emmaus team gradually improved and the overall standing rose. Although the boys had yet to see a 500 season, they did not take a defeatest attitude and fought hard for every set.

Emmaus Golfers Retain Championship Crown

Eager to equal or better their 11 win, 1 tie, and no loss record of last year, the golf team began practicing in March. The Hornet's home course, Brookside Country Club, was the scene of concentrated practice to prepare the linksmen for their opening match. Great skill and competence were the end result. Hopes for a winning season were justified as the golf team had taken the league championship in six of eight years of competition. They won the opening match by holding Southern Lehigh to only ½ point. This display of talent aided in substantiating Coach Smith's feeling that we had the District XI golf champs for the seventh time.

Sports-Minded Students Initiate Intramurals

Fall of 1965 marked the beginning of intramural basketball. Mr. Himmelberger coached the boys from grades 9 through 12. Twelve teams of approximately six players each played half-hour games once or twice weekly at the end of the school day. Players whose teams were not playing at the time served as officials.

The intramural league enjoyed complete success. It afforded recreation and enjoyment, and it provided boys with an outlet for physical activity. Because of the program's success, plans were laid for repeating and further developing intramurals next year.

THANKS . . .

The members of the Tattler Staff
Thank
All the people who helped publish
This yearbook . . .
The faculty and administration of EHS . . .
The many patrons . . .
The photography department of Hess's . . .
All the students who, by their cooperation,
Made the job so much easier . . .
And, especially, the Tattler adviser,
Mrs. Jean H. Bieber.

CLOSING . . .

At Emmaus High School,
Many Changes occurred during 1966...
Upperclassmen noted with gratitude
The absence of seventh and eighth graders...
Instructors taught only in the Areas they knew best...
New clubs sprouted up like
Ferns unrolling their fronds...
Curricula grew as advanced courses appeared.
Only one thing will never change:
The feelings of seniors as they say farewell.

While schooldays finally reach an end,
This book will be a lifelong friend—.

—THE TATTLER.
